

The Reveille publishes the following:

General George McClellan was in Richmond one day last week. This is about twenty years later than it should have been. Had he managed to have got into that city when he had a few million soldiers back of him he might have been a great man and occupied the place now held by General Grant, but he stood around until nobody was looking, and sneaked in. Has this "on to Richmond" anything to do with George B's presidential aspirations next year?

The Austin Democrat answers as follows and the reply has a good deal of truth in it:

This statement is both unfair and untrue. General McClellan never had anything like a million soldiers at his back, and he was always anxious to push ahead and attack Richmond, but those who had the ear of President Lincoln used their powerful influence to hamper McClellan in his operations and prevent his making the movements and attacks which his superior genius knew would be successful in breaking up the rebellion. The reason was obvious—it would have made him too popular, a thing that was not desirable to certain people. The American armies have seldom ever had a better General than this same McClellan, against whom his political enemies invariably try to find some fault. As to the place now occupied by General Grant, there are diverse opinions, in some of which he is not viewed as a demigod. That he was successful in defeating the Southern armies, after sacrificing hundreds of thousands of lives unnecessarily no one will deny. But he was rewarded by the American people, as much as Washington was.

A rumor is gaining strength daily that the Union Pacific Railroad Company proposes to build an extension of their line through Nevada to San Francisco, as a matter of self-protection. It seems the Denver & Rio Grande road has entered the field as a competitor and that the Central Pacific folks rather favor the narrow gauge road. The people of Nevada earnestly hope there is a foundation for the rumor, both because if built it would add largely to our taxable property and also lessen the cost of freights and fares.—[Reveille.]

Good News!

Chicago, May 11.—There is a fair prospect for a new competing overland railroad, to contend with the U. P. and C. P. roads. About six weeks ago, S. S. Merrill, General Manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, with members of his family and several friends—among them certain well-posted Eastern capitalists—started from Milwaukee in a special car for San Francisco. They traveled through the West over the Union Pacific, Central Pacific & Southern Pacific, Mexican Central, Denver and Rio Grande, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Atlantic & Pacific and other roads, and only returned last week. It is now learned that there is little doubt that the purpose of Merrill's visit to the West—and particularly to California—was to investigate as to the feasibility of building, or rather extending the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, to San Francisco, and engaging in active competition with the Union Pacific, the Burlington, Santa Fe and Southern Pacific, and the Northern Pacific California routes. It is known that this road is now engaged in extending its line to Deadwood, and the track is laid to Chamberlain, D. T. It would take little more to build it on to the Pacific coast.

It is further understood that Merrill, while in the West, examined the country to see where the best paying route from Deadwood westward could be located, and that he canvassed the chances for such an extension among Western railway engineers. He is said to have consulted, while in San Francisco, with prominent Pacific coast capitalists as to the prospects of their taking bonds of the new line. There are said to be several heavy Eastern capitalists, at present holders of St. Paul stocks and bonds in the scheme. The matter will excite much comment and discussion on all sides.

New York, May 11.—Andrew J. Smith, President of the Manhattan Fire Insurance Company, has been arrested and held, with bail in the sum of $5,000, on a charge of perjury, in swearing to false returns in his annual report for 1880 to the New York State Insurance Department. The accused swears that another officer of the company, whose signature was also affixed to the report, has purloined $39,143, and that he altered the company's books, attempting thereby to conceal the embezzlement.

German Duel.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Two Germans, C. H. S. Muller, an undertaker, and Wm. Baschorn, a brewer—both married men—had a duel with broadswords at Bowmanville, in the suburbs of this city, yesterday afternoon. The trouble, it is alleged, was about the affections of a maiden. Six carriages, containing the principals, seconds, surgeons and friends proceeded to the rendezvous. The undertaker—who was the champion party—was cut rather severely about the head and cried, "Oh, quit!" No arrests.

JACKSON, Ohio, May 11.—John W. Jackson was hanged this afternoon for the murder of Samuel L. Hall.

Dunn's Trial.

CHICAGO, May 11.—In the Dunn-Elliott trial yesterday, Fred Elliott, the oarsman, who sat at the table with Elliott at the time of the shooting, testified that a shot was fired over his shoulder by some one behind him. Elliott jumped up, with an exclamation, and raised a chair as if to strike, when another shot was fired. Dunn and Elliott then came together in the death struggle. Ten seconds later Elliott saw a pistol in Elliott's hand. Dr. T. J. Blumhardt, County Physician, detailed the results of the post-mortem examination. This closed the day's proceedings. The defendant preserved the utmost composure throughout.

This morning the testimony taken was very damaging to Dunn. A waiter in the restaurant where the tragedy occurred, and a man who was dining there both testified that they saw Dunn come quickly through the front room. His hands were in his coat pockets and he was walking fast. He walked up to the entrance of the rear room and at once drew his revolver and fired. Immediately he fired a second shot, and then drew back into the passage way with uplifted arms, as if to guard against a blow. The witness then saw Elliott coming toward Dunn with an uplifted chair in his hands, and Dunn then fired a third shot, and Elliott struck the chandelier with the chair, dropped it, and grasped Elliott's head. At that time there was nothing in Elliott's hands. The two men said they then went out of sight behind the partition, and they next saw Dunn standing over Elliott's dead body.

The defense propounded various questions to impeach these witnesses' testimony. The trial will probably conclude by Thursday next.

The Apaches Surrounded.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 10.—Colonel Uda, Chief of Staff to General Fuero, of the Chihuahua army, who is in El Paso, states that the movement of General Crook across the Mexican border is not only approved by his government, but that General Fuero has been instructed to take the field in charge of the troops stationed at Chihuahua, to cooperate with Crook in a grand Apache round-up. The line of the combined forces is being drawn around the savages so that it will be impossible for them to break through. Colonel Uda believes all will be struck this time that will end in the utter annihilation of the raiding Apaches. The soldiers of our sister republic are anxious to be led against the enemy, and under General Fuero, who has the name of being an Indian fighter, they hope to do good work. The fact of Crook being on Mexican soil is not regarded by the Mexican government as a violation of the treaty between the two countries, his movements having been previously arranged by the authorities of both countries. Upon Crook's arrival at Sierra Madre the Mexican troops will move, and there will be music in the air.

CINCINNATI, May 10.—The News Journal's Harrodsburg (Ky.) dispatch says: The proceedings in the Thompson murder trial are mainly formal. The prosecution rested after giving legal proof of the murder. Colonel Jacobs then presented the defense to the jury, by a statement which shows that his defense will be that the shooting was justified by the great wrong suffered by Thompson. Colonel Jacobs drew a picture of Davis's conduct in Cincinnati, when he brought Mrs. Thompson drunk to the St. Clair Hotel, and declared it was worse than criminal. The testimony for the defense began, but was merely formal. The contest will be made when the defense attempts to prove the facts which justify Thompson.

LEXINGTON, May 11.—Governor Blighman today pardoned James Sizemore, sent to the penitentiary from Clay county, in 1880 for six years on a charge of murder. Sizemore made no defense on the trial, his brother, a man with a large family, being the real criminal. Sizemore voluntarily took the odium and penalty on himself for the sake of his brother and family. The brother, while dying the other day, confessed his guilt and gave unmistakable proof of the truth of his confession. The Governor on learning the facts at once issued a pardon to Sizemore.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 11.—No reliable explanation of the troubles at Dodge City, Kansas, has yet been received. A dispatch from Topeka says that nothing definite is known there, but it is believed the disturbance has not been so great as stated. Luke Short, the most prominent of the six men exiled from Dodge City, came to this city and left to night for Topeka, where he intends to lay his case before Governor Gleick. A prominent cattle man who resides in Dodge City, said he believed the whole trouble was simply a war upon the gamblers; that the citizens had determined to preserve a more orderly state of society, and therefore compelled certain parties to leave. He said: "They had a similar experience three years ago, and there is nothing especially remarkable in the present movement."

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 11.—A great lock-out occurred at W. S. Kimball & Co.'s cigarette factory to-day, 700 female employees being refused work. This firm had thrice refused an advance of 20 per cent demanded, and fearing a strike, refused to give their employees work when they arrived at the factory this morning.

GENESEE, Ill., May 11.—Sylvester K. Mackinson, for the murder of Mr. Maggie Conneland near Kewanee, August 26th, 1882, was hanged at Cambridge this afternoon. He protested his innocence and ascribed the crime to Joseph C. Le.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 11.—This morning, Angelo Corvetti, the Italian murderer of Daniel Cash, a Lowell convict in Sing Sing, on December 31, 1881, was hanged in the prison yard.

The church was thronged with people of the first circles of society. The bridal pair left for Monterey yesterday.
